

Hit us with your best shots

Text size

Featured photographer

Photographers of the Week:

Caitlin Quinn, Kate Smith, Max Carrasco, Ashley Murphy, David Paradela

Chelsea Berry, Zoe Kurtz, Caitlee Carrier, Stephen Snider

Posted by Teresa Hanafin, Boston.com Staff October 14, 2008 05:08 PM

Email|Link|Comments (7)

I attended the opening of a very special photo exhibit at the Boston Children's Museum last week: Project Tomorrow -- A Young Photographers Initiative photographic project. Nine children ages 10 to 18 with a parent under treatment for cancer at the Massachusetts General Hospital's Cancer Center were given cameras and an assignment: Make a portrait of your parent today that will inspire you to remember what is special about who she or he is tomorrow.

Photographer Paul Denckla then took a photo of each parent and child together. Finally, everyone wrote short essays about what the experience meant to them. The result is a poignant exhibit containing two photos per family -- the image by each child of her or his parent, and Denckla's photo of the pair together -- framed by the essays.

This gallery contains each pair of photos and short excerpts from the essays. (Click the Full-screen link to enlarge and again to return to standard size.) Under the gallery are links to the project website, as well as more details about the exhibit. The visual and narrative window into the special relationship between a sick parent and a child is instructive, compelling -- and a must-see.

- Enter the monthly contests and get published
- Apply for a Boston Globe professional critique
- Nominate a Photographer of the Week
- Tell us how you got the shot / Send in your tips
- Talk about photography and equipment
- E-mail with questions and suggestions

Contest

THIS MONTH'S THEME

Get Close

OK, RAW readers, it's time for your close up. You don't need a macro lens, but an eye for detail, patterns, and texture will be mighty helpful. So go have fun and experiment.

Deadline: Oct. 31

Photo contest - How to enter

Other contest winners: August / September

You can read the full essays written by the nine parents and children featured here, as well as learn more about this project, at the Young Photographers Initiative website. The exhibit of photos and essays is on display until Nov. 5 at the Boston Children's Museum, 300 Congress Street. It's located in The Gallery on the second floor.

Previous EntryNext Entry

< Back to Front Page

7 comments so far...

1.

Teresa,

Thank you for bringing this thoughtful and heartfelt exhibit to our attention. I am impressed by these children and wish every parent success beating this disease. I hope these kids realize what an inspiration they are to me and I am sure to their parent.

Posted by Linda Cullivan October 14, 08 07:08 PM

2.

These are amazing - the young photographers are so great at capturing exactly how they want to remember their parent...

Posted by Kate October 14, 08 10:48 PM

3.

If we all could remember to "live in the moment" as the participants all spoke about ..... a phenomenal essay of pictures and words .... Prayers and good wishes to all ....

Posted by A Grateful Cancer Survivor October 15, 08 08:33 AM

tipsheets

How-tos from The Boston Globe's award-winning photography staff -- and from you.

- Composing your photos Suzanne Kreiter, Globe Staff
- Photographing flowers Pat Greenhouse, Globe Staff
- Stop filling the frame! Jim Brady, BWPS
- Some great basic tips Gordon Ripley of Rindge, NH
- Landscapes with drama Bill Greene, Globe Staff
- Better beach photos Dina Rudick, Globe Staff

Read all of the tipsheets

Have tips to share? Send us your tipsheet

Critiques from Globe photographers

Caitlin Robbins has been serious about her photography for just 18 months, but the Globe's Dina Rudick says she already has an "eye for color and energy."

Read Dina Rudick's critique

Apply for a critique by a Globe photographer

Read all the critiques

Other photo sites

Boston Globe Photography

A showcase of the best work by the Globe's award-winning photo staff.

The Big Picture

News stories told in photographs, compiled by Alan Taylor of the Boston.com staff.

On My Mind

Globe staff photographer Yoon S. Byun asks Boston: "What's on your mind?"

Coming soon

WOW! I have goosebumps!

Posted by linderluu October 15, 08 12:05 PM

5.

This is beautiful...what amazing kids and parents! Thank you so much.

Posted by Kathy October 15, 08 12:17 PM

6.

Michael my dear! You are a very nice photographer. Congratulations to you! Good luck.

Posted by Mitra October 20, 08 11:28 AM

7.

I am very impressed with these young people. It's very refreshing.

Posted by Paul October 21, 08 05:25 PM

---

add your comment

Comment

Name  Required

Email address  Required (will not be published)

DO NOT HIT THE SUBMIT BUTTON MORE THAN ONCE!

- A blogroll of other photo sites
- A calendar of shows, shoots, and other events
- A list of New England camera clubs
- Your photo essays

get updates

 My Yahoo

 RSS Feeds

- Learn about RSS

archives

- October 2008
- September 2008
- August 2008
- July 2008